THE DEMS. JOLLIFY.

A Big Parade Tuesday Afternoon and Fire-works at Night.

They Rub it in on the Reps.—Some of the "Hits" and "Take-offs" in the Process.

"It's all over now." By this is meant the Democratic jollification.

It was a big demonstration in a political way. In fact it has been many a day since anything equal to it has been seen in Maysville.

The inclement weather didn't dampen the enthusiasm of the victorious Democrats. Every section of the county was represented. Aberdeen and Brown County sent over a big delegation too, and when the Ohio Democrat got hold of the little end of a tin-horn it was no trouble to locate him.

The streets began to fill up long before noon, but most of the people from the country timed their coming so as to arrive on the scene about the hour set for the procession to move.

Owing to the muddy condition of the streets, there were no foot-men in the procession. All who could do so, secured a horse, or a buggy or carriage. As usual on such occasions, most of the people preferred to look on, and the side-walks were packed. It was a jovial crowd. Most everybody seemed in good humor. Here and there could be seen, occasionally, a sour-looking fellow whose politics was depicted on his face. The rank and file of the G. O. P., however, joined in the spirit of the occasion, although they didn't do much shouting.

The line formed on Limestone and headed by Grand Marshal Wall and his assistants moved West on Second. Haucke's Band furnished some of its liveliest music. The line of march as heretofore announced was carried out except that the Sixth ward was not slighted. The procession moved East on Second to Broadway, thence to Forest avenue thence back to the main part of the city via Forest avenue, Commerce and Second.

The "hits" and "take-offs" on the Republicans and a few disaffected Democrats attracted much attention and were the source of much amusement for the crowd.

The banners were numerous. Some of the banners were illustrated with hastily-drawn sketches, the work of Master Lee Porter of the BULLETIN office and Mr. Lee Haucke.

People who witnessed the parade will recognize the following, among the "hits" displayed on the banners:

- "I would like to have my old place back again. Judge Holt can get it for me."—Pat Sammons.
- Reverse side: This is what he will get—breaking rock on the Hill City pike.
- Elect Harbeson and my practice is ruined.—G. W. Adair.
- "Come on, all you easy payment people, and help me out of the soup."—H. Ort.
- Cox that can not crow—Willie, George and Orlandie.
- Chairman Ort, in a buggy, as he appeared November 8th going to Third ward polls and thence to Howe's toll-gate polls.
- Baby Ruth to Baby McKee—"You ditout of my pa's house."
- "I have the Fourth ward in my inside pocket, don't you know."—Toda Wood.
- Poor McCartney! He won't tackle our fire-rats any more.
- Indiana was tired of him, Illinois was tired of him, Ohio seems tired of him; in fact, the whole Nation was tired of him, but he was a great friend to me.—Millionaire.
- The office-holders nominated Ben, but couldn't elect him.
- "If not in harmony with Harbeson who am I in harmony with?"—L. W. Galbraith.
- "My son, what did they do with our boogie?"—R. A. C.
- Dug Ort to Colonel Baldwin: "Who dares to spend money at tollgate precincts?"

Banner on boat drawn by four horses:

This boat sails up Salt River March 5, 1892. Captain, Thomas A. Davis; Chief Clerk, J. D. Dye; Mate, D. P. Ort; Cooks, Roustabouts, etc., Pat Sammons, Tom Forman, Fred Bierbower, Ad. Mitchell, Jack Wadsworth, Cole Outten and the P. O. employees.

Starts up Salt River Early March 5, Loaded Down With Sick Republicans.

Guaranteed Not to Stick on Any Bars.

No Return Checks.

Where is Tom Davis and Dug Ort? (Picture of colored voter)

Don't blame poor Dug Ort. Wiscaree Hoodoo Wadsworth was really in charge.

"Uncle Morg, can't save me now."—Ad. Mitchell.

The South wild cat. This is the kind of banks Sherman, Foster & Co. tried to make the people think they would have if Cleveland was elected. They knew they lied. The people—the voters—did not take the bait.

Foraker! Foraker! What are you at? Searching for votes in Grandpa's Hat?

Reverse side: Capital, $16; deposit, $7; issue, $190,000; overdrafts, $31.40. Open from 5 a. m. to 10 p. m. for deposits.

"Squire Marsh was too much for Davis.

Jack Wadsworth returns to pa's quarries. "Good-bye," Clay, "I will need no clerk."

Single X clubs killed "Andy."

Western Union Tel. Co. DANVILLE, KY., November 9, 1892. W. D. C. Maysville, Ky.: What is Brother Andrews' majority.—H. C.

The answer that he looked for never came.

"Nothing in it"—Grandfather's hat.

"They take my keys and I am blue; Will they take my pension too?"—C. D. Outten.

Whose boy will skin rabbits now?

Order No. 1: "Tear down all Democratic bills from our poles."—Bob Cochran, Superintendent Maysville Street Railway.

Davis, come home to pa.—G. W. Dye.

Carnegie to Harrison: "The American people know a good thing when they see it."

"To the victors belong the spoils."

"Count on 65 majority in the First ward."—The Two Willies.

"Andy" still waits.

"Soft snap good bye."—T. A. Davis.

"Employ no Union men on my newspaper or in my building."—Whitelaw Reid.

Who will ride Tom Forman's grey mare?

"I have an ambition to be a Judge."—"Andy" Cochran.

Oh, my! Oh, my!

All praise to Maysville BULLETIN.

Did Cleveland have any opposition? If so, who was his opponent, of what politics?

Their tale of woe—They all must go.

Tin, tin, McKinley tin. Ben steps out and Grover steps in.

"I go to Lewis Co. to return no more."—J. D. Rumrants.

If Harrison is elected I will name the boys.—W. H. Cox.

The scene on Market Street last night is almost indescribable. There was one surging mass of men and boys. They shouted for Grover, they danced, they yelled for Cleve, they waltzed up and down the pavement, they shot fire crackers, fired Roman candles, sent sky-rockets whizzing into the air. Nearly every individual had a tin horn, and the din and racket was almost deafening. Haucke's Band was stationed on the balcony at the Central, but its music was almost drowned by the noise on the streets. The familiar strains of "Dixie" could be heard occasionally and that would set the boys wild. Everybody seemed happy, however, and so far as known not a single disturbance occurred. It was a late hour when the crowd at last dispersed and the city quieted down.

NOTES.

Gable Brothers had an attractive display in the parade yesterday.

The Misses Lamb of West Third street had a large single X lighted with candles as the illumination at their home last night.

Mr. John Hill, of this city, wore in the parade a badge of the National Veterans Association organized at Chicago in 1884 for Cleveland and Hendricks.

Dr. G. M. Williams was very enthusiastic and liberal with his display of fire works last night. His was the best made by any single individual in town.

"Uncle Wat" Andrews, colored, has been a Democrat for years, and he attracted much attention in the parade yesterday. He rode a gray horse, and carried a banner on which was written, "Who will ride Tom Forman's old gray mare now?" "Uncle Wat" enjoyed it immensely, but the police had to be called in to protect him from some colored women when he reached home.

Among the "hits" we failed to mention above are the following:

"Where were you when the cyclone struck us?"—T. A. Davis.

"If I can't beat Jim Owens I can't beat anybody."—C. H. Nicholson.

"Give me 20 Democratic votes in each precinct and I will get there."—Andy.

"If any Republican hasn't voted take my carriage and fetch him."—George Cox.

Lost—Campbell, Worthington, Galbraith & Co.'s list of 200 Democratic votes for "Andy."

"If I had my way I would cram the Force bill down the throat of the South."—M. C. Hutchins.

A HOPELESS QUEST.

The Fleming Gazette Tells of Editor Davis' Search for a Successful Republican.

His feet were sore and weary; his face was thin and worn; his clothing was old and ragged and covered with the dust of many roads, and he staggered as he toiled painfully on. But there was in his eyes some of that light which never shown on sea or land, and it upheld him in his task and drove him forward.

On and on he went, and he searched city and country alike and the anxious, inquiring light in his eyes deepened. Into the slums he shambled, and he peered into the dark alleys and the by-ways, and passed through the hovels and the tenements.

Then he entered the country, and scrutinized hill and valley, and wandered into the forests and across the plain. Wherever he went he looked and looked and sought and sought and sought but he found not, and his heart was bitter, and his gait became more unsteady as his load of disappointment grew heavier.

For what was he hunting? Was it the Wandering Jew? Was it some enthusiast seeking the philosopher's stone?

No, it was Brother Davis of the Public Ledger searching for a single Republican who had been elected to any office anywhere in the United States.—Fleming Gazette.

Gorton's Minstrels.

Now on its return trip from the Pacific Coast this oldest of all minstrel companies—this is its 27th consecutive year—will appear at the opera house in one of its very musical entertainments of genuine minstrelsy Tuesday evening, November 22nd. The company is a large one, all white artists of established reputation, and the performance, in its entirety, approaches nearer to the genuine old-time, before-the-war, plantation negro style of minstrelsy than any other company on the road. Among the concessions make to modern innovation must be prominently mentioned the stage setting for the first part.

The grand jury made their final report yesterday and were discharged. Eleven more indictments were returned, one for grand larceny, seven for Sabbath breaking, one for failure to perform duties as a peace officer, one for petit larceny and one for selling liquor without a license. The proprietors of nearly all the barber shops and clothing stores and of one cigar stand are indicted for Sabbath breaking.

The Legislature re-assembled yesterday. The usual committees to wait on the Governor, and the messages from the two houses announcing readiness for work, were exchanged. Mr. Charlton sent up a memorial resolution upon the death of Hon. Laban Moore.

Governor Brown sent in the nomination of State Inspector W. H. Gardner for another term of two years, and it was confirmed.

TORNADO policies.—W. R. Warder, agt.

CITY REGISTRATION.

A Total of 1,409 Voters Enrolled for the Election Next January.

The regular registration for the approaching city election ended yesterday. Over 1,400 voters were enrolled during the two days, apportioned among the various wards as follows:

|                  |        |
|------------------|--------|
| First ward.....  | 173    |
| Second ward..... | 234    |
| Third ward.....  | 232    |
| Fourth ward..... | 308    |
| Fifth ward.....  | 276    |
| Sixth ward.....  | 186    |
| Total.....       | 1,409. |

The regular registration for the recent State election showed the following:

|                  |        |
|------------------|--------|
| First ward.....  | 190    |
| Second ward..... | 255    |
| Third ward.....  | 242    |
| Fourth ward..... | 311    |
| Fifth ward.....  | 282    |
| Sixth ward.....  | 188    |
| Total.....       | 1,468. |

Eighty-two names were afterwards added to the list on the special days provided by the State law, making the total registered vote for the State election, 1,550. The registration this week is 141 less than that for the State election.
